College Boot Camp Announces Its Presence at Stanford Splash!

College Boot Camp introduced its Time Management & Goal Setting workshop to high school and middle school students at Stanford Splash!- a two-day educational program happening every semester- at Stanford University on Saturday, April 13, 2013.

Brigette R. LeBlanc, the founder of College Boot Camp, delivered two interactive 45-minute sessions to 80+ students coming from all over the nation. With the clear mission statement of preparing students for college while learning life skills in mind, College Boot Camp provided counseling in time management and goal setting for both academics and personal life during its workshops.

College Boot Camp is committed to continue its mission by making its presence in the upcoming events across the nation. College Boot Camp will prepare all students for College and Life.
